

Fronted Adverbials

Here are some sentences from the Twinkl Originals story Super Socks. All of them contain fronted adverbials to describe when, where or how something happened.

Highlight the fronted adverbial in each sentence.

1. Slowly, Ollie walked into the playground to meet Sara.
2. At one point, a strong gust blew her right off her feet.
3. Luckily, his heavy feet were rooted to the ground.
4. At home, Ollie took off the yellow socks.
5. Every week, someone moaned about how cold it was in the pool.
6. Then, he tried jumping and running.
7. Now, everyone laughed, including Ollie and Miss Janowski.
8. Finally, it was Friday.
9. At school, the only problem was keeping his feet still under the desk.
10. By bedtime, he was missing the excitement of the socks more than ever.

Now, write the fronted adverbials you've highlighted in the correct column of the table.

When Something Happened	Where Something Happened	How Something Happened

Choose three fronted adverbials – one from each column – and write your own sentences using them.

Don't forget to include a comma after each fronted adverbial!
